SEDLERS COMING BACK FAST TO THE TREATY

All Except Five Regular Divisions Will Be in U. S. During July Unless Unforeseen Difficulties Develop.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
The News Scimitar's Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—All the American troops in Europe, with the exception of five regular divisions totaling 200,000 men, will be home during the month of July. When those divisions will get home depends upon the action of the United States senate and other delays that may arise elsewhere in ratifying the peace treaty or setting up a league of nations to carry out the provisions of the treaty.

If the American senate is the only body that declines to ratify the treaty, a state of peace will, of course, have been proclaimed between Great Britain, France and Germany. If the league of nations is to be abandoned because of the refusal by the American senate to sanction its organization, some other structure to preserve peace in Europe will be required. Until it is definitely determined what that structure is, American troops probably will not be sent home.

These regular divisions contain many drafted men. The officers are mostly those who have been in the regular army or have been drafted into it with the regulars and, desiring to make a profession of arms, are not so anxious to return home as the drafted men. The war department is desirous of just as many regulars for the future as it is for the present. But while the parents may be anxious to have them back, the majority of the men in the five regular divisions are said to be satisfied to see the job through.

If the treaty is ratified on all sides and peace is proclaimed in July, even these five regular divisions would be home by the last of August. There would be plenty of tonnage to carry that number home in a single month, as the average monthly capacity of the ships at our disposal is more than 300,000.

During the week ending May 26, for example, 133,870 troops set sail from Europe for the United States. On the latter date we had 71,000 men on the sea and 540,000 men in Europe, which includes the five regular divisions retained to observe the armistice and maintain the peace.

War department officials calculate that between now and the middle of July, the number of troops in Europe will have increased to 600,000. The number of troops in the United States will have increased to 1,000,000. The number of troops in the United States will have increased to 1,000,000.

As for demobilization inside the United States, the men who came from overseas are discharged at once. They are not being held for any purpose, except to be sent back to Europe. There are, on the other hand, 100,000 men who did not see service in France, who are being held indefinitely. Probably this number will tend to diminish when the camps in the United States are through with the demobilization process for troops overseas.

It requires an organization everywhere to keep up the camps where the overseas men are concentrated for the few days prior to their discharge. The work should be over by the middle of August. Then an army will be maintained for defense purposes only until the five regular divisions can get back from Europe to relieve the men who are on duty in the United States.

The American public will have to be patient with the railroads for at least two months longer and if there are not enough trains for excursion traffic during the summer months, it will be largely because of the unprecedented demand for troops to move to the various demobilization centers.

Sixty per cent of the American army abroad has been demobilized. More than 1,152,427 have sailed from Europe since the armistice was signed and 2,215,161 have been discharged from the entire army both here and overseas. The most men we ever had in France was 2,053,865.

Unprecedented Feat.

America is bringing her troops home, therefore, at a speed greater, of course, than she sent them over. It is a feat in proportion that the rate at which other military organizations have been moved overseas. It is an unprecedented feat. It will continue at the same rate unless some move on the part of Germany or a decision on the part of France or the United States to impose the terms upon her.

War department officials usually add consequently to all calculations the cautionary observation "unless some unforeseen difficulty develops." The only possibility of change lies in a refusal by Germany to sign the treaty and a decision to impose the terms upon her.

LOOK APPEALS TO FATHER HOME

Famous Soldier Visits Aged Mother After Ovation From Hill People.

PALL MALL, Tenn., May 31.—Sergeant Alvin C. York, pronounced by Gen. Pershing as the greatest hero of the world war, arrived at his home here shortly before 8 o'clock Friday night and realized what he has declared since he returned from France was the greatest desire of his heart, the desire of again seeing his aged mother.

Delight, admiration and love were strongly displayed by the aged woman as she greeted her son, while he whose coolness under fire has elicited enthusiastic praise could scarcely control his emotions.

Sergeant York was met at Crossville on his arrival there today at 2:15 o'clock by a large number of prominent citizens of Fentress county, who, following the welcoming exercises held at that town, formed an escort of honor and accompanied him to his home here. The trip from Crossville here, a distance of about 50 miles, was made by automobile, in the car with Sergeant York being Tom Wheeler and Judge W. H. Case, of Jamestown, the county seat of Fentress county.

The party left Crossville about 3:20 and the road leading through a mountainous country and being exceedingly rough, the trip took more than four hours to make the trip.

People had gathered at York's home from miles around to greet him on his arrival. He was accorded an enthusiastic reception, York displaying keen pleasure in the attention shown him by his friends and neighbors and receiving their plaudits with the same modesty that he had shown during the ovations given him in the big cities he has visited since he returned to his home.

On his arrival at Crossville York was greeted at the station by about 250 people. The crowd of the 11th field artillery during much of its campaign in France, has established his office in the Goodrich building, North Court avenue. York was engaged in the practice of law prior to his army service and at the time of enlistment was criminal court clerk.

TENNESSEE CONTINUES SAVINGS STAMP SALE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 31. (Sp.)—Tennessee is to be given a quota for the sale of war savings stamps. The remainder of the year 1919. Such a decision was reached this week by the authorities of the Sixth military district, which includes the state of Tennessee in its jurisdiction. The change in the plan of campaign for the sale of war savings stamps was announced at a very large conference of county directors in Chattanooga the 19th, when the directors unanimously demanding a definite task for the year with a monthly minimum.

Mr. Bishop further called attention to the fact that June 15 will be another interest day for holders of Liberty bonds. The interest on the bonds will fall due on that date, and Uncle Sam will disburse a large amount of money in Tennessee. "Keep your dollars growing," is the slogan of the war savings campaign, said Mr. Bishop, and of the most important nature to live up to that slogan will be on June 15, when we may present our coupons for interest. The county directors will bring this matter to the attention of the people in the most forcible way possible so as to prevail upon all holders of the coupons to "keep their dollars growing."

FLYER CLIMBS FROM ONE PLANE TO ANOTHER 2,500 FEET IN AIR

Lockyear, an experienced flyer, he was flying two years before the war started. He got the idea of riding an airplane much as a lady acrobat does a horse in a circus while a cadet at Barron field, Tex.

The government regulation demand that every cadet must be able to read 10 words a minute from panels on the ground while flying at a certain height. The work is difficult because, as the plane chokes over the field some part of the framework or wing constantly interferes with one's vision. Lockyear decided to get a clearer glimpse of the ground when he tried to pass the test. So he simply climbed over the side of the cockpit onto a wing of the plane and then slipped down to the landing frame below. Needless to say he read the 10 words in a minute and got a perfect score.

Lockyear's favorite positions while doing his stunts on a plane are standing poised, apparently ready to jump, out the upper wings of the plane, and hanging by his knees, head downward, from the under frame of the plane. Occasionally he takes a notice of the tail and work himself out to the end of it.

People Must Take Mineral Iron Or They Get Sick and Lose Their Snap and Vitality

Thousands of people today are suffering for the want of iron. They are tired, run down, and don't know what the matter with them—it's the lack of iron in the blood, that life-giving element that rebuilds the worn out tissues from the food you eat and gives you the strength, health and vigor that nature intended you to have and which you would have but for the strenuous times in which we live.

Your physician will tell you that you must have an iron tonic if you go to the world's greatest health resort, the iron you get at the drug store is injurious to the teeth and irritates the stomach. It is almost as bad as the cure.

Acid Iron Mineral overcomes these dangers because it is a natural iron product that is mined out in Mississippi at the only mine of its kind in the world. It is a pure, clean, and a particle of chemical treatment and can be used without fear of discoloring or hurting the teeth or hurting the stomach.
